GOSSIP OF A DAY COLLECTED BY OUR CORRESPONDENT

Kittery, April 20.
Thursday evening was very pleasantly passed by Kittery Grange at the hall on Central street. After the business meeting an interesting program, prepared by the lecturer, was given, as follows:
"How I Would Keep House if I Were a Woman," George Boulter

Piano solo, Mrs. Fred Hatch
"How I Would Farm if I were a Man," Mrs. Alice Fuller
Recitation, Lords of Creation, Mrs. Fuller

The remarks of Mr. Boulter on his subject were very amusing. Mrs. Fuller was plain and right to the point, discussing the neat and the slack farmer. The recitation of Mrs. Fuller, who is seventy-one years of age, was listened to with pleasure by all present. Mrs. Fuller is a wonderfully clever lady for one of that age and is very much interested in the Grange, never missing a meeting, weather permitting.

The solo by Mrs. Hatch was much enjoyed. After the program, a box social was held. A prize offered for the nearest box was awarded to Miss Viola Bunker.

Guy Kenniston of Exeter was a visitor in town on Wednesday.

Frank Robbins of Pleasant street saw the thirty-second degree work of Masons at Nashua on Thursday.

The senior class of Trape Academy will hold a benefit dance next Wednesday evening, April 25, at Wentworth Hall.

A regular meeting of Dirigo Encampment will be held at Odd Fellows' Hall this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. M. U. Urann are visiting relatives in Boston.

Charles Prince, who is enjoying a vacation from his studies at the University of Maine, left here on Thursday afternoon for a pleasure trip, which will include Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut towns.

A large delegation from this town attended the Masonic meeting at Nashua, N. H., on Thursday.

Miss Elinor Lovell, who has been suffering from an attack of neuralgia, is able to be out-of-doors again.

Mrs. Ida Marshall of Pine street, who was sent as a delegate of the Rebekah Lodge to Lewiston, has returned.

Kittery Point

The bottom of the schooner Marion Draper is in a very bad condition. There are five holes in the port side, while the planking is chafed for nearly the whole length of the vessel.

Temporary patches have been put on, so that she can be kept free of water with her own pumps.

She will soon be towed to Portland or Boothbay for repairs.

Mrs. David Bedell of North Berwick is the guest of Mrs. Martin Williams.

Alfred V. deForest of New York is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Wasson.

Oliver L. Frisbee of Portsmouth passed Fast day at his cottage on Tavistock Island.

Frank T. Clarkson was at Nashua, N. H., on Thursday.

MAYOR MARVIN

Issues A Notable Proclamation'

CALLS ON PEOPLE OF PORTSMOUTH

To Aid Sufferers From Earth- quake and Fire

Mayor William E. Marvin today (Friday) issued the following proclamation:

City of Portsmouth, N. H.,
Mayor's Office,
April 20, 1906.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PORTSMOUTH AND VICINITY

I have received a touching appeal by telegraph for aid for the residents of San Francisco, which has been overtaken by an awful calamity. Thousands are homeless and in urgent need of the bare necessities of life to tide them over this terrible emergency. I urge you to contribute what you can afford, in money, to help the sufferers in a sister American city.

Mr. Walter H. Page, tax collector, will receive contributions at the office of the city treasurer and the fund will be forwarded, in the name of the citizens of Portsmouth, to the mayor of San Francisco, when it reaches due proportion.

WILLIAM E. MARVIN, Mayor.

The following appeal has been received in this city:

Boston, Mass., April 19.

William E. Marvin,

Mayor of Portsmouth, N. H.
San Francisco in dire need of immediate assistance. Citizens have asked me as a native born Californian to aid in work of relief. Have started funds in this city and in all cities where I have representatives and correspondents.

Clarence H. Mackay gives me $5000, George J. Gould $5000, Mrs. P. A. Hearst $5000 and W. R. Hearst $5000, and many other subscriptions of $1000. Am sending tonight from Los Angeles relief train and steamer, nurses, doctors and supplies.

I pray that your citizens may realize the terrible distress of San Francisco citizens and that they will help us at once to the extent of their ability.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

A Benefit Sacred Concert

W. Wallace McIntire, director of the choir of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, suggests to The Herald a sacred concert at Music Hall on Sunday evening by the combined church choirs of the city. The proceeds, of course, would be added to the Portsmouth fund for the San Francisco sufferers.

This plan is an excellent one and if it is carried out should result in a large sum for the relief of the people of the stricken city.

Service at Universalist Church
Rev. George B. Leighton, pastor of the Universalist Church, will on Sunday forenoon recognize the awful calamity at San Francisco, by holding a special service in his church for the aid of suffering humanity in that stricken city.

The Herald is requested to say that the sermon will be pertinent to the occasion, and the work will be entirely done through the American National Red Cross as suggested in the proclamation of President Roosevelt, issued on Thursday.

At the conclusion of the address a collection will be taken for the benefit of the homeless and suffering in San Francisco, and it is hoped that the contributions will be large.

Those unable to be present at this humanitarian meeting can send their subscriptions to Rev. Mr. Leighton, and all receipts will be sent by him to the treasurer of the Red Cross at Washington for proper distribution.

DIED IN SICILY

Grandson of Levi Woodbury Met
Death in Foreign Land

Woodbury Lowery of Washington, whose death on April 11 occurred in Sicily, was a grandson of the late Levi Woodbury of Portsmouth. He was unmarried. He left a sister, the Duchess D'Arcos, whose husband, a few years ago, was minister from Spain at Washington.

Mr. Lowery was a cultivated gentleman of many acquirements. He had written one or two books of considerable merit, and was well versed in Spanish history. His pleasing manner won him many friends, who are grieved to hear of his being cut off in the prime of life.

CONNECTIONS DESIRED

At Boston Between Joy Line and Atlantic Shore Line Steamers

Officers representing the Joy Steamship Company have lately been in this city arranging for connections at Boston with the Atlantic Shore line steamers.

The officials of the latter corporation will place its steamers on the route between this city and Boston on the earliest possible date.

SALE REPORTED

Of Mugridge Wharf to the J. A. Lane Company

Mugridge's wharf, off Market street, has, it is said, been purchased by the J. A. Lane Company of Manchester, which now owns the Isles of Shoals hotels.

The Shoals steamer will in future land at the Mugridge wharf.

NEW PAPER COMPANY OFFICIAL ARRIVES

A J. Anderson, one of the new attaches of the Publishers' Paper Company, an official to be permanently located here, has arrived and will soon bring his family to this city.

San Francisco Totally Wiped Out

The Fire Completes Earth- quake's Work

Only Melancholy Piles of Stones and Ashes Left

WITH EVERY REPORT FROM THE PACIFIC COAST THE DISASTER AT SAN FRANCISCO GROWS MORE APPALLING. THE BEAUTIFUL CALIFORNIA METROPOLIS HAS EVIDENTLY BEEN BLOTTED OUT. TO REBUILD IT WILL MEAN THE MAKING OF A NEW CITY.

THE FIRE ON THURSDAY AFTERNOON JUMPED VAN NESS AVENUE, THE BROAD THOROUGHFARE AT WHICH IT WAS HOPED TO CHECK THE FLAMES. THIS MEANS THE TOTAL DESTRUCTION OF THE CITY, FOR NOTHING CAN NOW SAVE THE FASHIONABLE RESIDENTIAL SECTION, WHERE ARE THE HOMES OF THE WEALTH AND CULTURE OF SAN FRANCISCO.

THERE IS NO WATER AND NEITHER DYNAMITE NOR POWDER WITH WHICH TO BLOW UP BUILDINGS. SO SCANT IS THE WATER SUPPLY THAT THOUSANDS ARE SUFFERING FROM THIRST.

TO ESTIMATE THE NUMBER OF PEOPLE KILLED AND INJURED IS IMPOSSIBLE. IT IS NOT BELIEVED THAT THERE CAN BE LESS THAN 5000 DEAD AND THE INJURED ONES WILL VERY LIKELY NUMBER FROM 10,000 TO 15,000. PROPERTY VALUED AT MORE THAN $500,000 HAS BEEN DESTROYED.

Expressions of sympathy and promises of aid have been sent from all parts of the United States.

Congress passed a resolution appropriating $1,000,000 on Thursday and it received the signature of President Roosevelt within half an hour after its introduction in the House.

John D. Rockefeller has given $100,000 and Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph Company has offered an equal amount to the University of California.

Other New York capitalists have contributed sums which, with those mentioned, aggregate $500,000. A benefit performance for the sufferers will be given at the New York Hippodrome on Saturday and there will be benefits at all the other New York theatres.

In this state, Concord and Laconia have already decided to take action. Portland, Ore., business men have already sent $110,000.

So dense was the smoke on Thursday that a darkness as of night shrouded the city. At least 200,000 people are homeless and before the fire burns itself out all of San Francisco's 350,000 inhabitants will be absolutely without shelter.

People Not Panic Stricken

San Francisco, Cal., April 20.—There is no panic in San Francisco. The people, stunned by the frightful calamity, behave with the calmness of despair. As the fire sweeps down upon their homes, they remove such articles as they can and flee to places of temporary safety.

Sublime courage has been shown, both by officials and the populace.

No Quarter for Looters

San Francisco, April 20.—No quarter is shown thieves and looters. Men caught robbing the dead or the ruined buildings are shot. Martial law has not been declared, but the military is working in conjunction with the civil authorities.

Famine Threatens

San Francisco, April 20.—To add to the general horror, there is great danger of a famine. The sale of foodstuffs is strictly limited. Water is even harder to obtain than food and a newspaper man on Thursday paid twenty-five cents for a small glass of mineral water.

Messengers in automobiles are, as far as possible, maintaining communication with the different sections of the ruined city. Many streets are blocked, however, and the danger from falling walls renders it impossible to traverse many others.

Dispatches From Funston

Washington, April 20.—The war department has received the following dispatches from General Funston:

"Fire crossed Van Ness avenue to the west at 3.30 p. m. Almost certain now that entire city will be destroyed. Have ordered troops from Monterey and everything is going as well as could be expected. On account of confusion it has been impossible to find individuals inquired for, but attention will be given the matter as soon as practicable."

"Official report at police headquarters this date states the sub-treasury building is entirely destroyed by fire with the exception of the vaults which contain all cash in hand. Suitable guards have been ordered to protect this money."

The mint, at last reports, was still standing and was almost the only building which had not succumbed.

Men of Wealth Give Freely

San Francisco, April 20.—The committee of safety, consisting of fifty prominent citizens, met with Mayor Schmitz on Thursday and organized a finance committee. Before the meeting had organized Claus Spreckles gave $25,000; Rudolph Spreckles, $10,000; Harry Tevis, $10,000; Gordon Blanding, $10,000; Eleanor Martin, $5,000; J. L. Flood, $5,000, with a promise of more.

Golden Gate Park is the main refuge, and supplies will be sent

There was a large attendance and considerable interest and enthusiasm were manifested.

GLEE AND MANDOLIN CLUBS

Of Local High School Only Such Organizations In State

This evening at the High School Assembly Hall, the P. H. S. Glee and Mandolin Clubs will give a concert for the benefit of the baseball team.

A long and interesting program has been planned for, and the members have put every ounce of energy possible into practice in order to make this event a success. The clubs are said to be the only high school organization of their kind in the state, and they are expected to give an entertainment that will not only reflect great credit upon themselves but on the school, and what it stands for,—excellence in all lines taken up.

NEW HAMPSHIRE'S DUTY AS TO SUMMER VISITORS

With the approach of the summer season the papers of the large cities which send their thousands of summer visitors into this state are again clamoring for improvements, and for a check to the devastation of New Hampshire's forests by the lumbermen. Under the caption "New Hampshire's Duty," the Boston Journal prints the following:

"The summer resort industry is

AN S. A. R. MARKER

Placed Above Grave Of Nathaniel Staples In Eliot

On Wednesday afternoon, the grave of Nathaniel Staples in Eliot Cemetery, South Eliot, was given the honor of a Sons of the American Revolution marker. There were appropriate exercises by the Paul Jones Club and the Helen Seavey Quilting Party.

Staples was with John Paul Jones on the Bon Homme Richard and was in the great duel with the English ship Seraphis off Flamborough Head on Sept. 23, 1779.

Addresses were read by President C. E. Hodgdon and Comptrollers O. L. Frisbee and W. O. Jenkins of the Paul Jones Club.

President Hodgdon spoke first and called attention to the fact that Wednesday was the anniversary of the first battle of the Revolution.

Nathaniel Staples, whose grave was marked by the local patriotic societies, sailed from Portsmouth on the privateer Dalton, said Mr. Hodgdon, on Nov. 26, 1776. On Dec. 24 of the same year, the Dalton was captured by the British frigate Reasonable, Capt. Fitzherbert, and taken to Plymouth, England. The members of her crew, including Staples, were placed in Mills prison on June 8, 1777, and remained there about nine months.

Through the influence of Benjamin Franklin, then ambassador to France, he was exchanged.

With forty shipmates, he arrived in France in February, 1778, and shipped with Jones on the Richard.

Mr. Frisbee referred in glowing words to the achievements of Jones and his men.

Dr. Jenkins emphasized the fact that great as were the exploits of Jones, he could not have accomplished half that has been placed to his credit without the men, like Staples, who fought beneath his flag.

Dr. Jenkins spoke as the living representative of Staples and his address was in effect a speech of thanks.

A business meeting was held after the exercises and Admiral G. W. Baird, a member of the District of Columbia Society, Sons American Revolution was elected a member.

A resolution was passed asking for a national congress of the Sons American Revolution to be held in Boston on April 30 and May 1, the congress to request the United States congress to make Sept. 23 of each year "Paul Jones day" in the navy.

Notes

Keeper William C. Williams of the Boon Island light station, who landed at Kittery Point on Wednesday afternoon, reports that on Sunday, April 15, the stern of the schooner Sallie B. of Bangor which foundered off Cape Porpoise in the gale of April 10, was washed ashore on the island. He and his assistants were unable to secure it however, and it finally drifted off again. It is a serious menace to navigation.

Schooner Baker Palmer, which arrived on Wednesday evening, is the second largest five master which has ever visited this port, being of 2240 net tons. The Dorothy Palmer, which was here on her maiden trip in July, 1902 was the largest, her net tonnage being 2315. Both belong to the William F. Palmer fleet of Boston. The Baker Palmer, while attempting to come off the Shoals in the thick weather of Saturday, went ashore, but was hoisted without damage. Her owners, however, afraid that she might be leaking, telephoned from Boston to the Piscataqua Navigation Company to be on the watch with the tugs.

Telegraphic Shipping Notes

Newport News, April 18.—Sailed, schooner Jacob M. Haskell, Harbortown, Portsmouth.

Vineyard Haven, April 18.—Arrived schooner William L. Elkins, Dixon, South Amboy for York. Passed schooner Oakley C. Curtis, Butler, Portsmouth for Newport News.

Packages—Mrs. C. Manning Akerman, Miss Mildred Hodgdon, Miss Bertha Richardson, Misses Mary and Beniah Watkins.

The Missionary society members were earnest in their efforts to please the attendants and the satisfied expressions indicated beyond peradventure that they were successful.

Mrs. David Urich acted as cashier.

INASMUCH CIRCLE

Annual Easter Donation Was Held on Wednesday Evening

The Inasmuch Circle of King's Daughters of the North Church together with the parish, gave the annual Easter donation party to the Home for Aged Women on Wednesday afternoon.

The introductory was the serving of by the circle of a dinner at noon to the inmates, the bill of fare embracing broiled steak, roast lamb, potatoes, onions and ice cream.

Included was the presentation by the circle of two long damask table cloths.

From three to six o'clock the reception of packages took place, representatives from the King's Daughters receiving the same and turning them over to the matron for proper disposal in the storeroom. These contributions embraced cereals, condiments, spices, five pounds of butter, sugar and other edibles, refreshments et cetera. There were numerous packages besides cash donations.

BROWN—DE NORMANDIE

Miss Alice Brown, daughter of Mrs. Altherton Brown of Commonwealth avenue, was married at noon Wednesday to Dr. Robert L. De Normandie of Beacon street.

Dr. De Normandie is the son of Rev. James De Normandie of Roxbury, who officiated.

The wedding was a very quiet one at the Brown home, only the families of the bride and the immediate friends being present.

There were many guests, however, at the wedding breakfast and reception which followed.

Dr. De Normandie is a Harvard graduate, and Mrs. Brown has been popular in society.

COAST DEFENCES

The subject of coast defenses is one that must soon become a matter for earnest consideration in Congress to a greater extent than has heretofore been the case. Our sea coast both on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, is greater in extent than any other in the world, and there are many exposed positions that an enemy could take advantage of in the event of war, says the Newburyport Herald.

While we are constructing a formidable navy, it could do most of protective service, unless our coast defenses, especially near our important ports on the Atlantic and Pacific, are on the higher order we might have deep occasion to regret our neglect in event of hostilities with any nation possessing a large navy.

President Roosevelt appreciates our position and calls upon Congress to make appropriations for our coast defenses at our most important ports along the two oceans which border on eastern and western sea coasts, and truly says the necessity for a complete and thorough system of coast defense is greater today than twenty years ago. The President is convinced that it was due to the securely protected condition of the Japanese ports that the Japanese navy, in the recent war with Russia, was free to search out the Russian fleet and give battle whenever a suitable opportunity offered, without fear of being called back to protect its home ports. A coast defense is a national protection.

There have been congressmen from our Western states who have not always been ready to vote appropriations for coast defenses. We trust that they will heed the President's admonition, in reference to the protection of our sea coasts, and aid in appropriations to defend the same against possible attacks of any hostile power.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kihner's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kihner's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kihner & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kihner's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THE EXPOSE WRITERS

Of course, the "Man with the Muck Rake" may employ his useful implement with little discretion and thereby do much harm. Some of those who have been opening our eyes to conditions in this land of ours have very likely exposed evils which did not exist. On the other hand, it is not improbable that there are still evils of which the people as a whole have no knowledge.

Perhaps Lincoln Steffens, Ray Stannard Baker, Samuel Hopkins Adams, Norman Hapgood, Alfred Henry Lewis and Ida M. Tarbell may not unjustly be classed among the writers who, figuratively speaking, have been raking muck. Even though this is so, no blame attaches, we believe, to these noted journalists and editors. Everyone of them has shown commendable fearlessness, but not one, so far as we have been able to learn, has been extravagant or untruthful in statement.

President Roosevelt has said that fraud and dishonesty in high places should be ruthlessly exposed. All he asks is that evils should not be exaggerated and the innocent made to suffer with the guilty. It is inconceivable that every trenchant criticism of the acts of public officials or of corporation heads is condemned. In fact, Mr. Roosevelt in his already famous speech welcomed all honest criticism and every truthful "exposure."

It is ridiculous to say that Thomas W. Lawson was the pioneer expose writer. Steffens, Baker and Miss Tarbell, among others, began the work of educating the people years before "Frenzied Finance" was heard of. Mr. Lawson was, perhaps, primarily responsible for the insurance reforms but certainly not for the awakening which has resulted in the overthrow of so many political bosses.

The reform wave will not subside. The men and women who have been writing of the things that are bad will continue to write of them until the wrongs which exist are righted. This is what President Roosevelt would have them do. No guilty man should be shielded and the sooner corrupt politicians learn that the stories of their wrong doing will inevitably find their way into print, the sooner will graft be eliminated.

DOES READING EDUCATE?

The question of whether or not reading educates depends on what the reading is and also on what is meant by education. That all practical education is obtained by a mingling of experience and reading will be readily admitted. There are people who contend that a boy or girl can obtain education in history by reading Henty, but we doubt it. The old way of "reading," i. e., study is, after all, the way most to be commended; and education by such reading should not end with the receiving of a sheepskin. There will be many instructive books remaining unread by us when we are gathered to the tombs of our fathers, even if we read incessantly from now until that time when we are called upon to lay down our implements on earth and go we know not where.

In this line of thought, the Newburyport News prints an interesting editorial, saying that "we are anxious, conscientiously anxious, in these days to know what the workman and his family read. Being told that three workmen out of four read sporting papers exclusively and that but one wife in four reads at all, and then only cheap fiction papers, social theorists conclude that the problems of morals and of poverty are involved right there. With the spread of education, we are told, the working classes will read something better worth reading. But do men and women who have been 'educated' in the conventional way make a better showing in their reading than the crowd in the cities of toilers. Education and prosperity are believed to go hand in hand, but if the argument is valid then the prosperous element should be reading something better worth while than the folks at the other extreme of society. The fact is, however, that men of business, lawyers, doctors, men in public life, read about the same things as the workman—that is, the papers and novels. And the women in the same circle, as a rule, have 'no time to read.' The workman's wife thinks it an economic sin to sit down with a book, and the women in the mansion think it a social sin. In the case of the latter her company or her club or her church or charity duties would have to wait on the latest novel. In both cases the excuse is that there are more important things in life than reading. Reading has been called 'the nightgown of sloth.' To read merely for the sake of reading would naturally breed laziness, and if recreation, stimulus, change of thought, can be secured as effectually or even more effectually in some other way than by reading, some way broadening to existence, it might prove profitable where reading would be the reverse. Education makes people think, but there are opiates set up in type that puts thought to sleep. The important thing, then, in reading is not the shape or size of the printed sheet, whether newspaper or book, but what it is about."

SHYLOCK

Shylock was the man who wanted a pound of human flesh. There are many Shylocks now, the convalescent, the consumptive, the sickly child, the pale young woman, all want human flesh and they can get it—take Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion is flesh and blood, bone and muscle. It feeds the nerves, strengthens the digestive organs and they feed the whole body.

For nearly thirty years Scott's Emulsion has been the great giver of human flesh.

OUR EXCHANGES

"The Muck Rakers"

"What are the bugles blowing for?" said Lawson-on-Parade.

"To turn us out, to turn us out," D. Graham Phillips said.

They're exposin' the exposures, they are callin' of 'em down.

They are huntin' of 'em hotly from New York to Packintown.

They will chuck 'em in a lake o' ink an' let 'em swim or drown—

They're exposin' the exposures in the mornin'.

"I started all this bloomin' row," said Lawson-on-Parade.

"I think Miss Tarbell saw it first," Rex Beach rose up and said.

"What's all that noise that shakes the ground?" said Lawson-on-Parade.

"It's Teddy Roosevelt's muck rake speech," a pale reformer said.

They're exposin' the exposures, there is trouble in the air.

There are folks and Hadleys coming from concealment everywhere.

And they'll all write stuff, and talk, too, when they've got the time to spare—

They're exposin' the exposures in the mornin'.

PROMPT RELIEF Is Necessary For Californian Homeless AND PORTSMOUTH SHOULD ADD HER MITE

Free Use Of Music Hall Tendered By Manager Hartford

FOR ENTERTAINMENT, FULL PROCEEDS TO GO TO RELIEF OF SUFFERERS

Portsmouth, one of the most famous and oldest cities in the United States, and prominent in the history of the country and the world for its part in bringing about peace between the struggling nations of the East, should not be one of the last to take action looking toward the relief of the sufferers in San Francisco and its neighboring towns and cities.

That Portsmouth should add its mite to the contributions now pouring in is not to be disputed, and there is none but will agree that it should be added as soon as possible.

To this end, Manager Hartford of Music Hall has tendered the free use of that place of entertainment for some one night of next week, the stage production to be given by local talent and the entire proceeds to be devoted to the relief of the suffering in the Queen city of the West.

It is unfortunate that the municipal condition of old Strawberry Bank is not such as to permit substantial aid being given from the public funds, but private individuals should, and undoubtedly will, be ready to do whatever they can looking toward the relief of the families rendered homeless by the frightful earthquake catastrophes of the past forty-eight hours.

SOUSA IN THE ORCHESTRAL FIELD

In his particular field, that of conducting a modern military band, Sousa stands absolutely alone and his case has no parallel. In orchestral music, no one conductor monopolizes the field. There are Nickish, Richter, Weingaertner, Gerick, Power, Scheel and Herbert, all eminent, and dividing the world's plaudits. No one pianist is supreme, for there are Paderewski, Bauer, Reissner, Zeisler, Carreno, and many others. In the vocal field conditions are similar, many brilliant talents, and no single one over all. But just mention "concert band" in any part of the world, and instantly comparison is made with just one organization: "The Sousa Band." Either it is "better" than the Sousa band or "not so good." Every band standard is measured by that created through the agency of John Philip Sousa's genius and tireless efforts that extend over more than a quarter of a century. Sousa will be at Music Hall next Monday evening.

AN AUCTION SALE

Recalls Visit Of Lafayette To This City

WHEN HE REGISTERED AT THE EARL OF HALIFAX HOTEL.

An interesting relic of Franklin sold at auction in New York city a few days ago with other relics, was a mezzotint portrait of him by M. Chamberlain, in the original block frame. On the back is this inscription in Franklin's autograph, "For Miss Sally Davenport, in Newburyport." She was the daughter of John Davenport, innkeeper in that town, and a grandniece of Franklin. It was sold for $71.

Lafayette brought this portrait to Portsmouth when he visited the French fleet in our harbor in 1782 and registered at the original Earl of Halifax Hotel on Queen street, later known as the "William Pitt," with eight of the officers of that fleet.

On leaving Portsmouth Lafayette carried this portrait to Newburyport and presented it to Miss Sally Davenport.

About forty years later Lafayette again came to Portsmouth and this was his last sojourn here.

ALL IS READY

For The Lodge Of Sorrow Of Portsmouth Masons

The Masonic committee of the Paul Jones Club will finish its labor on April 24, having accomplished the purpose for which it was appointed, namely to interest the one million Masons and twelve thousand subordinate lodges of the A. F. and A. M. in the country to hold Lodges of Sorrow in memory of Brother Paul Jones and to secure Masonic funeral services over the body of Jones.

The services at Annapolis next Tuesday are not in any sense funeral ceremonies, being entirely commemorative and the committee is assured that when the body of the great commander is finally laid away in the new chapel which is being built at Annapolis it will receive Masonic honors. It is expected that the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire and Masons from this city will perform the services.

This committee has sent out and received thousands of letters from the most zealous Masons and distinguished members of the Sons of the American Revolution in this country, which will be very interesting reading in 2006, if not before. The letters have been preserved in several scrap books.

It is interesting to note that this movement came from this city and the Paul Jones Club has achieved a national reputation. This is another achievement of this energetic club, which will ever see to it that not only Paul Jones gets his just deserts, but that Portsmouth and the old Granite state receives due credit for all they have done to make this nation the greatest in the world.

Portsmouth has done her whole duty in paying honors to the memory of Paul Jones at this time. Patriot's night at the Yacht Club and the Paul Jones Club exercises at Elliot were suitable exercises to his memory and the Lodge of Sorrow to be held under the auspices of St. John's and St. Andrew's Masonic Lodges will be a credit to the craft of this city.

Not only in this city, but the Masons throughout the state and in other states of the Union will write upon the Masonic tablet of time that on April 24, 1906, they, as Masons, in their generation, did fulfill their obligation to Brother Paul Jones, who was loved by Brother Lafayette and the trusted friend and valued associate of Brothers Franklin and Washington. The member of the Masonic committee are as follows:

O. L. Frisbee, chairman; W. O. Jenkins, H. A. Massey, C. E. Hodgdon, W. L. Hill, J. K. Bates, secretary; F. T. Clarkson.

AT THE NAVY YARD

The dredging fleet for Henderson's Point arrived on Tuesday afternoon from Boston in tow of the tug Eleanor L. Wright and William Kemp. The dredger and scows were tied up temporarily near the Franklin ship-house.

Prisoners are engaged in painting the Southerly's sides.

With the Topoka and the Southerly in the creek behind the navy yard a good part of the yard's commerce will be hidden from view from the river.

The crack oarsmen of Capt. Hennessey's famous row boat, the Mirth, will soon hang up the paddle sticks and rest themselves on the way to and from the navy yard. The captain will put in a speedy engine for the work and the Mirth will give way to the rest of the fleet to fight it out on the trips back and forth. Capt. Hennessey claims that his boat and crew have had honors enough and he intends to take things easily.

SIGN OF SPRING

POOR BALL

A Cold Wind Beamed Players

PORTSMOUTH BEATEN BY A SCORE OF 6 TO 2

It was not good baseball which the crowd at Portsmouth Field saw on Thursday afternoon. To be truthful, the weather was not of the sort conducive to a first class article of ball. A chill wind blew across the field and the fingers of the players must have been numbed.

The contesting teams were "Neddo" Brown's ball tossers from South Groveland, Mass., and Manager Manson's Portsmouth braves. The visitors from the Bay State proved too much for the locals and won by a score of six to two.

For three innings, the game was sharply played and neither side was able to score. In the fourth, an error by M. Dorsey and hits by Conlon and Lynsky netted Portsmouth two runs. South Groveland retaliated in the fifth, sending three men across the plate, the result of Morrison's two bagger, singles by Leonard and Carleton and Cragen's error. Three more runs were chalked up for the visitors in the sixth, three bases on balls, hits by Linehan and Wholley and an error by Tatro being the contributory causes.

The features of the game were the fielding of Paul and Mitchell, the hitting of Caswell and Leonard and the pitching of Covey.

WON THIRD VICTORY

Local High School Win Game From Cochocho Scholars

Fast day morning at Central Park Somersworth, in an excellently played game, Portsmouth High defeated the Dover High, one of her foremost competitors in the Southern New Hampshire Interscholastic League, by the decisive score of 11 to 3.

Although crippled by the loss of three of its best players the Portsmouth nine fairly swamped the boys from the Cochocho city.

Quinn, Portsmouth's star twirler, had the Dover sluggers entirely at sea, while Varney was the easiest kind of proposition for the locals.

Call and McCarthy proved able substitutes, while Jenness's batting was the feature of the game, Kilburn played his usual good game at short.

Following is the official score:

HIS BOARDING HOUSE GIRL.

"Did you ever call on a girl who lived in a boarding house? Never? Try it. The curiosity of folks who live in some of these houses may not actually keep them awake at night, but I'll bet a hat, it makes some of them a lot in their sleep," observed the man who is beginning to think the matrimonial situation over.

"Say, I think that at the boarding house where I'm making occasional calls this curious cult has got them all skinned."

"The young lady, when I get there, is, of course, always dressing, and will be down in a few minutes. I am favorably told this by the grinning girl who comes paddling down the hall to let me in at the door."

"Then she sidesteps with me to the parlor."

"It's always dark there. The light in the daytime would fade the paper flowers draped like an emblem of mourning over the chandelier. Gas lights run so high, don't you know, that there is only a flicker of the jet at night. Not a bad idea as some stages of the evening, by the way. As I am shown ceremoniously into this musty smelling place, a black and tan terrier that looks to be old enough to have rubbed against George Washington's silk stockings, snuffs at the bottom of my trousers and begins to squeak at me. When I try to push away the nuisance with one of my feet—swiftly propelled—a very old lady in a black silk dress and a white cap with purple ribbons run through it—I haven't noticed her before through the darkness—hurriedly picks the snarling dog up, scowls fiercely at me, mumbles something about 'men being worse than dogs,' and swishes painfully upstairs, carrying the yelping how-wow with her."

"Maybe it is her husband—I don't know—but then an aged man in a green skull cap and flapping blue and red carpet slippers over white socks, with his long broadcloth coat buttoned tightly around him, gropes his way into the room. Not being able to see me, he bumps into me and emits a gentle shriek of alarm. Then recognizing me as a male person who has been there several times to call upon one of the young women guests of the house, he grins and leans at me and reckons it is going to turn colder, and expects that 'she'll be down directly.' It's none of his business whether she will or not, because she isn't even distantly connected with him. When I fail to encourage him in conversation he slides out, grinning back on me as if he considered I was making 17 kinds of an ass of myself."

"Don't think it. My troubles are only beginning. I know in what order they come, so I try to prepare myself. A woman who still dresses like they did at the close of the war—wrig held by a net, some corsetine beneath her green satin skirt and with old red chignon girl rouge on her cheeks to give her a hectic flushy Camille effect, hurries into the parlor from the dark dining room. I can't help but imagine her joints creak as she coyly enters. Of course, she has a great deal of business in the parlor. She looks me over with care out of the corners of her eyes, pretends she is greatly interested in the advertisements of a ten-months-old magazine and then swishes upstairs. As she goes she casts back at me a sort of contemptuous and viperish glance as much as to say I look as though I should know better than go around calling on young ladies who have not yet reached the age of sense or discretion."

"This overdone curiosity extends even to the animals of the place. A blind malted cat totters over my way, investigates me, rubs himself or herself against my trousers for awhile, leaving enough bluish gray hair on them to stuff a pillow, and then ambles out into the hall, probably to tell the rest of them that Miss Blank's beau, who has got to calling on her so frequently, is waiting in the parlor."

"Then the Second Floor Front, a wedged faced lady with a voice like a hand lathe needing oil, hurries down the stairs demanding to know at every step, 'What's become of them towels, I'd just like to know?' She sees me in the parlor, glances at me with an accusing air, sniffs, and then turns and goes back up the stairs saying something audible about 'people that has the nerve to want to keep the parlor of a public boarding house to themselves all the time.' Just as though she didn't come down in the first place for the sole purpose of rubbering."

"The Fourth Floor Back, a superannuated suds artist, a clerk of 40 years' standing, never gets home for dinner, but always arrives promptly at eight o'clock, and perceiving me in the semidarkness, grins wisely as much as to say: 'Well, here's that bone-head again, calling on that girl, I s'pose.' Then he wobbles in and asks me whether I think maybe they will abolish football in all the colleges. Not being encouraged by much conversation on my part, he wobbles out again, favoring me with a parting leer of understanding as he passes under the lintel."

"Why is it that all human tormenters choose the first and most complete method of torture?"

"Then the young woman on whom I have come to call makes her appearance. For the remainder of the evening I have her to lean on—figuratively, of course—when the rest of the household shows up to do its pecking and peering around."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

The fact that the minister, pastor of the Buckport Union church, a bachelor who lived alone in the little parson's cottage, were wonderfully darned socks, although he confessed he could not darn them himself, created a great disturbance in the village.

The gossip spread and grew stronger until Rev. Mr. Nevins himself heard the entire story and then and there added to the mystery and the excitement by declaring not only that he did not know who was darning his socks, but that until he heard the gossip he did not know that they were darned.

To add further to the excitement the minister, who is considered one of the most desirable catches in the village, publicly stated that he would be willing to take the girl who could darn socks until he could not tell they were darned as his wife—providing, of course, that she was free, white, 21 years old, and unmarried. Furthermore, he declared that under favorable conditions he would not insist on the age limit.

On the same afternoon that the minister made his sweeping proposal of marriage the whole secret came out. Miss Ella Ramsey, who had been visiting over in Sedalia for two weeks, wrote to her chum, Miss Lida Rawson, and told the whole story.

She confessed that it was she who had been darning the parson's socks. She lived right back of the parsonage, and one day noticed Mrs. Kate Reilly, who does the minister's laundry work, hanging out some clothes, and she went through the back gate and into the yard behind the parsonage to speak to Mrs. Reilly about having her come to their house the following Thursday to do some cleaning. As she was returning through the yard, she noticed four or five pairs of the parson's socks hanging on the line, and observed that every one of them was out either at the heel or the toes. So, pitying the helpless bachelor, she had taken the socks home and darned them, returning them to the line that same afternoon.

Thereafter she made it part of her church duty to take the minister's socks off the line and darn them, taking care that no one saw her. She had no idea that it was going to create any comment.

Miss Ramsey is one of the prettiest girls in the town—and she meets all the minister's requirements except that she is only 20 years old. She is a brunette, small, alert, and determined, and she is admittedly one of the best young housekeepers in the town.

The mystery solved, everybody took it for granted that Parson Nevins would woo and win Miss Ramsey.

When the missionary society met at Mrs. Newton's house, Parson Nevins dropped in and instantly all the women began joking him about his proposal.

"Is the offer still open?" asked Mrs. Young.

"Really, ladies," said Mr. Nevins, "I spoke only in jest."

"You've been taken seriously," remarked Mrs. Rickman. "Half the girls in town are practicing darning."

"You flatter and embarrass me," Mrs. Rickman, said the blushing minister.

"Well, anyhow, you can't back out now."

"I have no desire to," said the minister. "And I would suggest that we arrange the darning contest to be held in the church. Then we can charge admission and apply the proceeds toward purchasing a new carpet."

The idea met with instant approval in the village, and the darning contest was arranged. At first there was a noticeable reluctance among the young women to enter, but finally Miss Jane Grove, who admits she is at least 37, announced that she would compete.

"Lord knows, it's my last chance," she said, laughingly. "I've got to win this time—or give up all hope."

After that candidates were advanced steadily. The committee in charge of the affair announced that the winner should have the privilege of refusing to marry the minister, and then several of the shy ones agreed to compete.

While the preparations were going forward Miss Ramsey returned from Sedalia, prettier than ever, and heard the news of the contest. The first evening that she was at home the minister called on her. He was blushing and stammering. He apologized profusely for his hasty words and thanked her warmly for her kindness in darning his socks for him.

And after long explanations and apologies, Rev. Mr. Nevins proposed to her. He told her he had loved her for many months and that he had intended to ask her to be his wife. Then he told her how he had been tangled into making his foolish offer to wed the girl who could darn his socks best.

Just what Miss Ramsey said to him is unknown, but the next morning she announced publicly that she intended to enter the contest. She made the announcement calmly and without a blush, and she added, proudly: "And if I win, I won't return the prize."

Half the men in town are pulling for Miss Ramsey to win and those who bet are putting up a little money that she will be the mistress of the parsonage.

The judges will be three married men, who have been wearing darned socks for years.

Also, already, and this three weeks before the contest, it is hinted that the judges are prejudiced. But whether this is true or not both Rev. Mr. Nevins and Miss Ramsey are serenely confident.—Chicago Tribune.

HER FIRST PIE.

"Goodness! There was the door bell, wonder who it is? Why, he must be if we owe him money!"

"Well, I simply can't go with all this flour on my nose and an apron on. I'll peek out. Why, if it isn't John Vincent Harris! I wonder what he came home for?"

"Yes, dear, in a minute. I am coming. Yes, I bolted the door. I was in the kitchen preparing a surprise for you. But why—You are. I will telephone the doctor at once. Just a cold? Well, if that is all, what made you come home? Of course, I am always glad to have you, only—I am so busy. Yes, in the kitchen. I am making something to—surprise you."

"Are you sure you are sick? Oh, I know it's something awful because all the babies around here are teething or have measles. I suppose it isn't either of those, but it might easily be something awful. Maybe it's something internal—and will develop—"

"Oh, Jack, are you going to die? And we were so—so happy! Well, if it's just a cold I don't see what you are making such a fuss about."

"No, I don't think you'd better take that. I read once about a man forming the habit—yes, they do. Yes, by just taking it once. I couldn't bear to have the neighbors coming here—to read tracts—and things. Well, if you're sure. No, there are no lemons and I can't possibly go for any just now, for it is almost the crucial moment with my—surprise."

"Oh, of course, if you are sick—Nutmeg will do? I am glad of that, because I was wondering what I could use them for. I hate to waste them. Yes, I'll bring the hot water at once. Just die down."

"Yes, Jack, I'm coming. I just stopped to remember where I left off in that pie. There! I've given it away! No, not the pie, the surprise. How much of you do you want me to give away my first pie—that I am making just for you!"

"You can't eat it? Well, I didn't know you would go and get sick just when—when I made it on purpose for you. No, I don't suppose you could help it—but you—oh, did I forget the nutmeg? Well, I can't think of everything at once. No, the water won't get cold. It will only take me a minute."

"Oh, John Vincent Harris, for shame! Yes, you did. I heard you distinctly, and if you use that naughty word again I shall go home to my mamma—she never says such things. Well, if you are sorry—"

"Yes, I brought you the nutmeg. No, I don't think the water can be cold. It is?"

"Men are so impatient when they are sick! I remember once when papa had the rheumatism—it was before he died—Oh, of course, if you don't want to hear—about—my poor—dead—gone papa—Are you sure you didn't mean—"

"Yes, I'll get the water and I do hope the nutmeg won't get cold. I can't run back and forth all day when I have a pie to see to—Why, aren't you going to eat it? And my first pie! No, it won't hurt anybody. I don't make pies to hurt people."

"Well, if you are determined to kill yourself by taking it with cold water. I wash my hands of the blame, for I am perfectly willing to get and get hot water for my sick husband any day, all day long. Now, you can go to sleep. No, you'd better not, for it might be one of those internal diseases and it might kill you, and you know it. I must go and look at my pie. I'll bring you—Nothing but toast and tea? Well, I won't feed my sick husband on any such diet when I have a nice, hot pie. Oh, yes, you will feel better. Yes, you will. Mamma says—I smell something burning—I can't stop to pull the shade—you can shut your eyes—"

"Yes, coming, Jack. Well, I can't possibly go to the door. I can't help it if it is your Aunt Mary. Why, it's Carrie!"

"Come right in. I am dying to hear about the wedding. They did? And no one saw them go? Yes, Jack. Excuse me, Carrie."

"You see, Carrie, I have a very sick husband, and it takes most of my time to wait upon him. No, we've not had the doctor. Do you think it might be some awful internal disease? You know it is sometimes. Yes, I am quite a nurse. Papa used to say—Don't go yet. No, it doesn't bother him. I want you to eat a piece of my first pie. Don't you love hot pie? I just adore it. I'll bring it in here."

"This knife isn't very sharp—we haven't had it sharpened since we were—No, it's the fault of the knife—the crust isn't tough. Isn't the meringue pretty? I put that on to cover the burned places. You can't wait? I am so sorry, and my first pie, too. I shall let Jack have a generous piece for his dinner, for it's never so good the second day, and I don't want to waste it. Of course, if he is worse in the night I shall call a doctor. I never take any chances in sickness. Good-by."

LOCAL DASHES.

A fair Fast day.
Memorial day next.
Basketball Saturday.
Too bad Portsmouth lost.
Did you see the ball game?
The tailors are still rushed to the limit.
Next Monday evening: Sousa's band.
Plenty doing on the first Spring holiday.
Important local events crowd one another.

The Foresters' fair appears to be still "T.T."

It is still a little early for the open trolley car.
Sousa's visit is a compliment to Portsmouth.

Portsmouth Field again jumps in to prominence.
Portsmouth should help the earthquake sufferers.

San Francisco's horror staggers the imagination.

Fitchburg—Portsmouth Saturday.
The High School baseball team has done well so far.

The talk on the street is all of sympathy for 'Frisco.

Arrivals of coal laden craft are reported every day.

Exeter will have a probate court session next Tuesday.

...rather a cold April on the whole, up to the present time.

Have your shoes repaired by John Mott, 34 Congress street.

The amateur gardeners have not yet begun their planting.

Strawberries are still classed among the greater luxuries.

News from the Pacific coast is read with feverish interest.

Easter week has very nearly broken all records for local activity.

New Hampshire people in California seem to have escaped injury.

Arbor day is officially a holiday, but it is not one in a business sense.

WANTED—A girl at 35 Daniel street. No cooking. Can go home nights.

There will be a session of United States circuit court in this city on May 1.

9-11-5 can you solve it? It is the order of sports,—baseball, football and basketball.

Those former members of the Kittery baseball team did well for Portsmouth on Fast day.

The job teamsters are kept busy by the many people who are changing their place of abode.

While we're sorry for 'Frisco, we're glad to know that Portsmouth's shakeups are all political.

The anniversary of Fannie A. Gardiner Rebekah Lodge will be observed on Friday, May 4.

Don't miss the greatest musical attraction of the season, Sousa's band at Music Hall next Monday evening.

An event of more than ordinary significance will be the Masonic Lodge of Sorrow next Tuesday evening.

Portsmouth fans realize the fact that the weather of Thursday was not exactly pleasing to baseball players.

The double victory of the Boston Americans on Thursday pleased most of the baseball enthusiasts of this city.

Weather permitting, the baseball team of Portsmouth High School will measure strength with Rochester High at The Plains on Saturday afternoon.

A good many people forgot that the saloons were closed yesterday on account of the holiday, until they had tried the door and walked shamefacedly away.

The North Parish Box Club will hold a sale of food and fancy articles at the chapel on Middle street, on Saturday, April 21, from ten o'clock in the morning until six o'clock in the afternoon. The object of the sale is to add to the building fund of the chapel.

GREAT ANXIETY

Is Felt For Portsmouth People

IN OR NEAR DOOMED CALIFORNIA CITY

No Word Has Been Received From Any Of Them

RELATIVES AND FRIENDS FEAR THEY HAVE PERISHED

Great anxiety is felt in this city for residents and former residents of Portsmouth who are believed to have been in or near San Francisco when the frightful disaster overtook that city.

In addition, a number of Portsmouth people have relatives who lived in or near San Francisco, from whom nothing has been heard.

Mrs. Charles E. Berry, daughter of Meshach H. Bell, made her home in Campbell, Cal., near San Jose, which is said to have been entirely destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis D. Marston, the latter a daughter of B. F. Russell, lived in San Francisco. Mr. Marston is a son of Frank C. Marston.

No word has been received from any of the Portsmouth people mentioned in these columns on Wednesday. Whether they are dead or alive, there is no means of knowing.

Manager Thomas Parsons of the local American Express office has a married sister who was at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, when last heard from.

John Henry Mugridge, brother of B. F. Mugridge, lived in San Jose with his family.

The majority of Portsmouth people now in California live in Los Angeles or vicinity and messages assuring friends of their safety have been received from nearly all of them.

In Venice, about twenty miles from Los Angeles, are former Mayor and Mrs. John S. Tilton and Mr. and Mrs. C. Edwin Tilton. In Los Angeles itself, are Thomas Clark, Dr. S. P. Ham, Mr. and Mrs. C. Whidden Ham, Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Watts, Calvin Woodside, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stockes and former City Clerk William E. Peirce.

A Letter From San Francisco

A post card and a letter at The Herald office, loaned by George H. Beesley of this city, convey the first definite intimation of the probable loss of life or injury to Portsmouthians.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Beesley the former a Portsmouth boy, left this city several weeks ago in search of a more suitable climate for Mr. Beesley, who at the time was quite ill.

Letters were received in this city regularly by Mr. and Mrs. George E. Beesley of Washington street from their son, dated at the several Western and Southern cities visited. Word was finally received from Galveston, Texas, announcing the selection of that city of a permanent residence. From that city the letters were dated during the last weeks of March.

But as shown by the letter at this office, the Galveston climate did not prove congenial to the condition of Mr. Beesley.

He soon moved to San Francisco and the souvenir post card bears the date of April 5.

The card is a colored picture of "The Chutes" at the corner of Tenth avenue and Fulton street.

Dated April 11, the letter reached this city on April 16 or Monday of this week.

Mr. Beesley's health was greatly improved by the San Francisco climate and he continually mentions that city as his permanent home and entreats his parents to move there and reside with him.

Grief stricken over the possible death of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Beesley have vainly sought to hear from him. All attempts at telegraphic or telephone connection from this city are futile. There will be but little joy in the immediate family and for the acquaintances of the genial "Jack" Beesley in this city until news, "good news" of him is received in this city.

Mr. Beesley resided in this city about thirty years, from his birth until the present year, with the exception of three years passed in the

Any news received in dispatches by The Herald concerning any Portsmouth persons in or near San Francisco will gladly be forwarded to relatives or friends.

Stopped at Lick House

B. F. Mugridge and his son, B. F. Mugridge, Jr., on the occasion of their recent visit to San Francisco, stopped at the Lick House, a hotel totally destroyed by the earthquake shock and fire.

Snare and Triest May Be Sufferers

Snare and Triest, the contractors who are now constructing the administration building on Seavey's Island, are anxiously awaiting some information from California. The firm is completing a $200,000 coaling plant at California City, four miles from San Francisco, and they fear that the disaster has resulted in serious damage. Up to today (Friday) Mr. Potter, the superintendent in charge here, had heard nothing. Mr. Potter returned from California about a week ago.

Has No Risks

The Granite State Insurance Company of this city has no San Francisco risks.

Had Relatives in Ill-Fated City

Herman Feurhahn of the Naval band and Mrs. Feurhahn are anxiously awaiting news from relatives in San Francisco. One family, named Triest, lived near Market street, where the worst effects of the earthquake were felt. Louis Rutau and a family named Younker were also residents of the ill-fated city.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Elizabeth F. Dame

Mrs. Elizabeth F. Dame died at her home in Elliot on Thursday at the age of seventy-three years, seven months and twenty-one days. She is survived by five daughters and one sister.

Patrick O'Connor

The death occurred on Thursday at his boarding place in this city of Patrick O'Connor, aged sixty-eight years. A native of Ireland, he came to the United States as a young man and served in the navy for more than thirty years. He was a fireman on the frigate Kearsarge when that ship fought the Alabama.

NEW HAMPSHIRE NAMES IN WASHINGTON

It is a curious fact that in Washington are to be found three apartment houses named respectively, The Portsmouth, The Rockingham and The New Hampshire. We do not observe another instance of city, county and state thus represented at the Capital. The Portland and The Cumberland stand within a stone's throw of each other, but there is no Maine.

Mrs. William Winder left Mare Island navy yard on Wednesday for this city.

Capt. William Shackford of Orange, N. J., is passing a few weeks in this city.

John P. Lyman of Boston passed the holiday at the Lyman homestead on Austin street.

Mrs. Harry Taylor and child are visiting her mother, Mrs. Susan D. Yates of Middle street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Grover passed Fast day at their cottage at the Hedding camp grounds.

Mrs. J. K. Manning of Epping, formerly of this city, enjoyed Fast day in Portsmouth among friends.

Mrs. Adams, who played here in "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots", is the mother of the famous actress, Maud Adams.

Mrs. Charles H. Hutchings and her granddaughter Miss Beatrice Hill are visiting Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hill of Cambridge until Sunday evening.

Gustav Frohman, brother of Charles Frohman, the famous New York theatrical manager, is to have a cottage at Wallis Sands, Rye, the coming Summer.

Mrs. William R. Moore and Miss Catherine B. Locke of Newport, R. I., have been for a few days the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Silver of Miller avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Tripp and Miss Kate passed Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoxie on Richards avenue. They are on their way to Bangor, where Mr. Tripp is to build a railroad station for Cummings and Company of Boston. Mr. Tripp built the office building at the navy yard, as well as others for his company, and the couple resided in this city up to a year ago.

RECENT MARRIAGES

Joseph L. Bailey of Waterville, Me., and Mrs. Minnie A. Rockwell of Hyde Park, Mass., were united in marriage in this city on Wednesday by Rev. C. O. Farnham of the Ad-cent Church.

Walter C. Owen of Denver, Col., and Bessie W. Braley of Charles-town, Mass., were married on the same day by City Messenger Warrington Moulton.

YORK BRANCH TO OPEN MONDAY

On Monday, April 23, the train service of the York Harbor and Beach branch of the Boston and Maine railroad will be resumed. Already a large amount of freight has arrived here to be sent over to the beach. Four trains each way will be the schedule until the Summer timetable is issued.

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN

The dead body of an unknown man was found on Thursday in the Salem race track grounds. There was no clue to the cause of death and nothing by which the body could be identified.

WILL NOT BEGIN THIS YEAR

The Methodist congregation which a short time ago purchased property on Miller avenue for the building of a new church will not commence operations this year.

MEN ARE INDICTED

Joe Doe and Couin Must Face Court

THE TRIAL WILL NOT BE HELD AT ONCE

Joseph Guin and John Doe were on Thursday indicted by the grand jury at Exeter for the murder of Giuseppe Giampa at Rockingham Junction on Feb. 11. Separate indictments were returned.

The prisoners who have been indicted will be arraigned on Monday next, with the exception of the two men, Guin and his companion. Their trial will not be held for a week or more, owing to the fact that the second judge to sit on the case cannot serve until later.

Thirty-two indictments were brought in, those in addition to the two named above being as follows:

John Green, Exeter, tramp;
George Hayes, Exeter, tramp;
Julia Francois, Derry, keeping for sale;

BLESSSED BY POPE

Signal Honor For Two Ladies Of Portsmouth

Mrs. Robert C. Peirce and Mrs. E. M. Jewett, of Portsmouth, recently received the blessing of His Eminence, the Pope at the Vatican. Mrs. Peirce bore a letter from Cardinal Macchi, to whom she had been introduced by Lady Hackett, widow of the late Sir William Hackett, chief justice of Ceylon. Rev. James E. McCooly of Dover, was also present and speaking Italian, as he does, was kind in his service as escort.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cogswell have left Rome.
Miss Susan Wentworth was lately in Rome.

Mrs. Peirce and Mrs. Jewett intend to return home in July.

SPOTTED FEVER

It Makes Its Appearance In Newington

SELECTMAN OF OUR NEIGHBORING TOWN IS STRICKEN

Another case of cerebro-spinal meningitis, otherwise known as the spotted fever, has developed in this vicinity. It is in the neighboring town of Newington, and the afflicted man is William C. Pickering. He is not expected to recover.

The first case of this dreaded disease, and the last until the present, came to light in Kittery a few weeks ago, following the death of the young man who was stricken.

The disease did not spread at that time, and there is little danger of its becoming epidemic at this time.

"Sporadic cases," said a local physician to a representative of The Herald last evening, "are generally known by the longer name; if the disease spreads, the name spotted fever is applied."

It is considered extremely unlikely that the disease will spread.

Mr. Pickering is a very popular citizen of Newington and is a selectman of that town.
